

show they should be included. Section 2 lists those residue languages to which reference has been made elsewhere in the 'Supplement'. The long list of names, originally taken from Capell and Berndt's field work has not been repeated unless there is some fresh information about them. Hansen remarked that these names appear to be mostly nicknames for various clans, based on vocabulary variations; for instance, the Warburton people at Papunya are called Kuwara-djara because they use kuwara for 'to wait' instead of wanju.

Section 1.

56.2d Ibarga (name deleted) A18 (AIAS A59)

Originally listed by Capell because it appeared on Tindale's and Davidson's maps and was also listed in the 'Science of Man' (Mar. 1, 1913). All the above located it on the Oakover River. Whether it once was a dialect name cannot now be determined but today it is a Panaka skin group name used by the Kiyatjara at Wiluna (Marsh). Douglas also confirms it as a skin group name.

56.2f Inawonga (name deleted) See 50A.5b*.

56.2i Mardo (deleted) S.W. of L. Disappointment (T's
map
A38 (AIAS A6)

Probably is derived from maḍu, the Jigalong term for 'man' and if a dialect (which seems uncertain) or a subgroup, probably belongs with the Jigalong dialects. Tindale's location for it is south west of Lake Disappointment. It is probably not the same as Maduwonga (mapped by Tindale in the Kalgoorlie district) as stated in 'RLS'.

56.2j Tjitiyamba A10 (AIAS A42)

Means 'belonging to the child' from tjitji 'child',
-mpa possessive

Originally listed by Capell because appeared on Tindale's and Davidson's maps, but almost certainly not a dialect name. (WHD). Bates mentions Djidji 'west of Boundary Dam' but this does not appear to be a dialect name.

56.2k Madoitja A20 (AIAS A41)

Madoidja (AIAS), Madoitja (T, SAW), Waianwonga (DB), Wainawonga (Hermann)

Location given by Daisy Bates as Lake Nabberu. She claims to have collected myths and legends but these are probably in one of what she terms the Murchison languages, possibly Ngadawanga, 56.2m. von Brandenstein says the word is Marduidja and is a locational not a tribal or language name, meaning 'low land'. It refers he says to Njijapali (50.3a) territory.

56.2-1 Konin A15 (AIAS A35)

Gonin (AIAS), Konin (T, O'G, SAW)

Apart from Tindale's map, Davidson's register of tribes and the O'Grady - Wurm classifications, there is no linguistic information on this group, so its identity is questionable.

56.2p Ngurlu A27 (AIAS A10)

Means 'fear' or 'afraid' (WHD)

Douglas' meaning of the word suggests this is not a dialect name, though Capell's comment in 'LS' cannot be ignored - viz: "Nothing recorded and probably unavailable if Tindale is correct in saying that after 1890 it was overwhelmed by the westward movement of Waljen and Nangadadjara tribes." (AC)

56.2q Maduwonga (deleted) Kalgoorlie area (T's map)

Means 'talk using maḍu for "man"'

Jindi (Craig), Maduwonga (O'G, 'RLS'), Mardowonga (SAW), Marduwonga, Mardudjara, Maduwongga

No new light has been shed on this dialect name.
